

MELBOURNE SUSTAINABLE
SOCIETY INSTITUTE

The Melbourne Sustainable Society Institute at the University of Melbourne invites you to this special event:

Post Carbon Pathways: Report Launch and panel discussion on climate change leadership

When: 6pm – 8pm, 15 April 2013

Where: Elisabeth Murdoch Theatre (Bldg 134), Spencer Rd, to the left of Ian Potter Museum of Art on Swanston St, University of Melbourne

As the probability and risk of catastrophic climate change continues to grow, so does recognition that political rather than technological obstacles are the biggest barriers preventing a rapid transition to a just and resilient post carbon future.

Post Carbon Pathways: Creating a just and resilient post carbon future, by John Wiseman Taegen Edwards, and Kate Luckins draws on in-depth interviews with leading international researchers, policy makers and activists on actions needed to drive the rapid implementation of large scale post carbon economy transition strategies.

This event will also feature a panel discussion addressing the question: Meeting the challenge of climate change: What would courageous moral leadership look like?

Chair: David Karoly, Professor of Climate Science, University of Melbourne

Report overview: John Wiseman, Professorial Fellow, Melbourne Sustainable Society Institute

Panelists: Rob Moodie, Professor of Global Health, University of Melbourne
Roy Neel, Al Gore's former Chief of Staff and Adjunct Professor of Political Science, Vanderbilt University
Lucy Manne, Co-director, Australian Youth Climate Coalition

Free but please RSVP at <http://postcarbonpathways.eventbrite.com/>
For further information contact John Wiseman: jwiseman@unimelb.edu.au or visit: www.postcarbonpathways.net.au